& FIRE
AFRICA

Digital Opportunities 2023

The market

As an emerging market, and with the African fire, safety and security systems market expected to grow at an annual rate of 4.4% by 2026; Africa is quickly becoming one of the most dynamic and sought-after markets in the world.

Investment in Africa has ballooned in the last few years, funding in much-needed infrastructure, development in railways, highways, airports and ports as part of China's Belt and Road initiative have transformed countries like Nigeria into a manufacturing hub thanks to new infrastructure. Major railway projects in Kenya and Tanzania are the biggest projects undertaken in these countries. And with GDP growth in the region expected to hit 6.6 per cent in 2025, Sub-Saharan Africa is growing faster than most of Asia.

Other ongoing projects include the setting up of large-scale technological cities, new Capital cities, major critical and social infrastructure and continental transport links. Africa therefore offers outstanding commercial opportunities for companies engaged in designing and supplying fire, safety and security systems, equipment and technology.

Security & Fire Africa is the only independent news source which serves the wider community and provides a uniquely efficient and comprehensive marketing tool in the region.
